

Do you care about how our local communities develop? Are you interested in planning for the future?

The Southwest New Brunswick Service Commission (SNBSC) is looking for people residing in the region who want to serve on the Planning and Review and Adjustment Committee (PRAC). In joining the committee, you will form part of a diverse team to advise and make recommendations to local government councils and the Minister of Local Government and Local Governance Reform on matters relating to local planning. Supported by professional planning staff, you will also make decisions on development applications using by-laws, regulations, and the Community Planning Act.

SNBSC is looking for volunteer committee members who live in Southwest New Brunswick and who are interested in planning and development. In addition, SNBSC is seeking a diversity of skills, perspectives, and geographic representation.

This volunteer role has a basic expected commitment of one (1) meeting each month – third Thursday of each month. Each meeting you will be compensated for your time and any mileage. Most meetings can be participated in-person or online.

To serve as a member of the PRAC, a person must be eligible to vote in Provincial elections. If you are interested, please provide an indication of your interest, as well as a brief description as to why you would be ideal for this role to:
